Travel Grants for Deep Sea Scientists

Guidelines

Objective
The High Seas Alliance (HSA), in collaboration with the Deep-Ocean Stewardship Initiative (DOSI), recognizes the importance of enabling all ocean stakeholders, and in particular the scientific community, to participate in key ocean discussions to provide input and ensure that government decisions related to protect the high seas and the deep seas are informed by the best available science. HSA/DOSI travel grants present an opportunity to facilitate increased engagement from the scientific community.

To that end, we will award travel grants to enable participation and engagement in meetings, conferences, workshops, and events, while at the same time increasing the social and scientific understanding of key issues and topics, and improve our efforts to protect and sustainably manage the high seas and deep seas.
